TYTO ALBA

Tyto alba – the Barn Owl, A homeopathic remedy proving; Conducted and edited by Jörg Wichmann and the Bergische Homöopathie-Schule, 2004. The remedy was given to the Remedia Pharmacy by the German homeopath Herbert Sigwart, who acquired it from the Danish museum of the University of Aarhus, where he got the breast muscle and feathers from a deep -frozen wing of a barn owl. Owl was chosen for this proving due to a 'joke' proving of 'owl's milk' called 'Lac owleum', eight years earlier. This faux proving was taken seriously by the homeopathic community and caused quite a stir when it was found to be 'bogus' – merely a joke. "Yet since that article I knew I owed something to the owls whom I had mistreated in this way for a mere joke, and in which their spirit had taken part extensively, I'm glad to say. So eight years later I started a full and serious remedy proving of owl."

Aristophanes and others use the word kolumbis, 'diver', for the name of the bird, because of its swimming motion in the air. 'Livia' is derived from the Latin livor, 'discolouration' or 'bluish' Cassell's Latin Dictionary, London, 1904

COLUMBA LIVIA
Rock dove, Rock pigeon, (Egg yolk)
Order: Columbiformes, Family: Columbidae
Colum-1

Some authors employ the convention of C. livia domestica, which is not a formal category in zoological nomenclature. For feral pigeons it is certainly not suitable as they are not created by human selection. C. livia forma domestica is also invalid according to the rules of the International Code of Zoological Nomenclature

The movie '300': The Spartan army was at the centre of the Spartan state, whose male citizens' primary obligation was to be exceptional soldiers. Subject to harsh military drill from infancy, the Spartans were one of the most feared military forces in world history; they fought with ferocious intensity. By the early 5th c. BC, Sparta was the unchallenged military master in southern Greece. (1) Bravery was the ultimate virtue for a Spartan; mothers would give their sons their shield with the words "[Return] With it or [carried] on it!", that is to say, either victorious or dead. (2) Spartan women were famous for their independence and were reared much like boys, including strenuous physical fitness training. They were head of the household and had much power. Both male and females participated in gymnopaedia the Spartan festival of naked youths. Their loyalty and love for each other and for Sparta gave them strength to face armies far larger than their own and defeat them. This is depth of commitment and fervour is depicted in the movie '300'; King Leonides took a troop of 300 to stop the advance of 7,000 Persians through Thermopylae. Leonides and his 300 fought to the death; if they had not been betrayed they may have won. The Persians had hundreds of casualties and desertions during the battle with the fearsome Spartans.

The Kingfisher Unit: The primary task of the legendary, elite and secretive Israeli Yehidat Shaldag (Kingfisher Unit) is targeting enemy structures and vehicles for assault by Israeli fighting aircraft. They deploy undetected into combat and hostile environments to conduct special reconnaissance. Using their high-energy laser designators, they can mark targets (terrorists) for fighter-bomber launched laser-guided bombs or Hellfire missiles from Israeli helicopters. (3) (4)

The Sacred Band of Thebes an "army of lovers", was a unit of hand-picked soldiers, consisting of 150 pairs (300) of male lovers which formed an elite unit of the Theban army in the 4th century BC. Herodotus describes them as the "best and bravest" among Thebans. Each pair consisted of an older erastês ("lover") and a younger erômenos ("beloved"). Polyaeus described the Sacred Band as being composed of men "devoted to each other by mutual obligations of love"; they would fight to the death to protect their lover. Plutarch claims that origin of the "sacred" appellation was due to an exchange of sacred vows between lover and beloved at the shrine of Iolaus (one of the lovers of Hercules) at Thebes. (5)
